

MARVIN DUKES TYNER passed away on Thursday, May 20, 2021, at University Hospital in Augusta, Georgia. He was born in Americus, Georgia on August 6, 1959, to the late Mr. Roy James Tyner, Sr. and the late Mrs. Ella B. Leggett Tyner.

He attended public schools in Americus, Sumter County, Georgia until moving to Middletown, Connecticut, where he graduated from Woodrow Wilson High School. After high school, he attended Middlesex Community College; there, he received an associate degree in business.

In Marvin's early age, he gave his life to the Lord and became a member at Union Tabernacle Baptist Church in Americus, Georgia. After moving to Connecticut, he joined Shiloh Baptist Church in Middletown. When he relocated back to Americus, he rejoined Union Tabernacle Baptist Church.

Marvin later moved to Augusta, Georgia where he became a member of Antioch Baptist Church under the leadership of Pastor Dr. Kenneth B. Martin. He was a member of the church's Male and Voice choirs. Also, he was a door greeter at the church. During his spare time, he would either be playing and singing gospel songs or baking pound cakes.

In addition to his parents, he is preceded in death by a brother, John T. Feagin.

He leaves to mourn: two sisters, Ella Kate (Olin) Riley of Middletown, CT and Earnestine (James) Baker of Augusta, GA; one brother, Roy James Tyner, Jr. of Americus, GA; five nieces: Jennifer Feagin of Snellville, GA; Tesa Jackson, Kelly Tyner and Natalie Tyner, all of Americus, GA; Lisa (Alvin) Jackson of College Park, GA; three nephews: Derrick Tyner of Sandy Springs, GA; Hernando Tyner and Mario Tyner, both of Americus, GA; a special cousin who was like an aunt, Effie Russell of Miami, FL; a god daughter, Ashley Kelly of Augusta, GA; two dedicated friends, Sylvia Robinson and Delia Epps, both of Augusta, GA; and a host of great nieces, great nephews, other relatives and friends.
